Trump Gazes One Last Time at the Border Wall as Feds Ramp Up Sedition/Conspiracy Charges for Capitol Breach

Trump has denied any wrongdoing in the Capitol violence that took place last week, as continuing calls pour in for him to step down or be dragged out, kicking and screaming. The president apparently visited the southern border wall as a last-ditch effort for a somber photo op. It's going to work. Trump knows and his supporters know in their hearts that the gig is up.

> The Deep State is real, but it's not what you think. The Deep State you worry about is mostly made up; a fiction, a lie, a product of active imaginations, grifter manipulations, and the internet. I'm telling you this now because storming the Capitol building has drawn the attention of the real Deep State — the national security bureaucracy — and it's important you understand what that means. You attacked America. Maybe you think it was justified — as a response to a stolen election, or a cabal of child-trafficking pedophiles, or whatever — but it was still a violent attack on the United States. No matter how you describe it, that's how the real Deep State is going to treat it.

The feds are as we speak looking into sedition and conspiracy charges on all those who were involved in the Capitol riot. For those unaware, sedition is at least the attempt to overthrow the government. This is going to get very ugly. Over one-hundred active investigations are under way to catch all those involved and given Biden and Kamala's tough on crime records, the next administration will throw the book at these people. You cannot attack the center of the unipolar global empire without expecting serious charges and prison time. For all the talk of optics, it is always those with the worse optics who project bad optics onto others.

> As I've been stating, the "America First" and "Stop the Steal" crowd are going to face serious consequences in the coming year. The people who entered the Capitol are getting arrested now. That's only the beginning. Who knows? Q might get unmasked before all this is done. The seriousness with which the Feds are taking this can't be underestimated.

This is the time at which those who cultishly supported Donald Trump to the end can demonstrate their good will. The Republican party, conservative movement and entire Trump cult, along with liberal American Nationalism must be denounced as the toxic brew of controlled opposition it always was. The solution to the problem of diversity and leftism is not more Republicans, it is for dissidents with a vision opposed to the Enlightenment to rise in their place. If you still support these freaks and weirdos, you deserve every disappointment coming your way. It's time to grow up.
